--- SEE OFFICE ACTION ON THE FOLLOWING PAGES ---

1. Claims 8-19 are presented for examination.

Specification

2. The Specification is objected as having an improper Appendix. The only provision made for an Appendix in a United States Patent Application is for a computer listing Appendix. Accordingly, Applicant must remove all references to "Appendix A" in the Specification and either cancel Appendix A or bodily incorporate it into the text of the Specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 8-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gordon et al. (US 5,195,173).
5. As to claim 8, Gordon taught the invention as claimed, with the exception that Gordon et al. Did not teach the form editor being under control of the user.
6. Gordon taught: a): a system to provide information to maintain and repair equipment, comprising knowledge-based access to and management of a technical database (Column 2, line 25-33); b) displayable publications (Figure 1); c) a list of forms would have been inherent in Gordon et al.'s multi-form system; d) an editor for filling in the forms (Column 3, lines 48-55; Column 6, lines 4-9).
7. Gordon et al were silent as to whether the editor was under control of the user.
8. It would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art of programming to make the editor under control of the user because that would have allowed useful user annotations to have been input as modifications to the forms.

9. As to claim 9, although Gordon et al. Were silent as to whether the selection list had form number, revision, revision date, and title; however, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill in the art of computer programming to have programmed such a feature because Gordon et al.'s invention had applications to regulatory compliance with the Interstate Commerce Commission which regulates Interstate Trucking and their forms would have included the standard government designations such as form number, revision, revision date and title.
10. As to claim 10, Gordon et al.'s invention used a mouse (Column 3, line 28-36).
11. As to claim 11, Gordon et al.'s invention assisted the user to fill in forms (Column 6, lines 4-9).
12. As to claim 12, Gordon et al. Disclosed a printer (10 Figure 1).
13. As to claim 13 and 14, Gordon et al. Did not disclose an aircraft maintenance system or FAA forms; however, it would have been obvious to have applied Gordon et al.'s invention to aircraft maintenance, using FAA forms because the aircraft maintenance problem was also subject to similar type of safety and maintenance regulations as the trucking industry and the forms of ICC covered some of the same type of routine maintenance as FAA forms (e.g. Brake overhaul vs engine overhaul).

Allowable Subject Matter

14. Claims 15-19 are allowed.
15. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: In claim 15, the tying of the electronic logbook function to revision selection list for updating maintenance required based upon revisions to the publications, taken together with the other limitations of claim 15, were not disclosed by, would not have been obvious over, nor would have been fairly suggested by the prior art of record. The claims further dependent upon claim 15, being further limiting, definite, and fully enabled by the Specification, are also allowed.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

PRIOR ART MADE OF REFERENCE

16. Gordon et al. (US 5,195,173) was used to reject claims 15-19.
17. Yakish et al. (US 5,563,998) disclosed a Forms automation system. The Abstract and Disclosure are relevant.
18. Lewis (US 5,666,481) disclosed a system for providing maintenance in a communication network. The Abstract and Disclosure are relevant.
19. Skorupski et al. (US 5,680,328) disclosed a computerized vehicle maintenance reporting system using a small on-board computer and a ground support station. The Abstract and Disclosure are relevant.
20. Sandifer (US 5,778,381) is the parent patent. The Abstract and Disclosure are relevant.
